Renters Insurance

When you are renting, the owner of the property you are living in is responsible for damage or loss to the building and fittings, but you are responsible for your own possessions – such as your clothes, furniture, electrical goods, books and other valuable belongings.

Renter's insurance is a form of contents cover designed for people living in rented properties. It protects against financial loss from specific risks such as fire, burglary or against accidental loss or damage.

This type of policy varies between insurers, so it is worthwhile comparing policies to find the features that best suit your needs.
